Question 15: Event Flow in the DOM

Answer: Event flow is the process through which an event travels through HTML elements in the DOM. It includes capturing, target, and bubbling phases. For example, in a Flipkart shopping cart, clicking a Remove button inside a product card may also trigger a click event on the parent card because of event bubbling.